Your touch burns
Like lightning in my veins
You showed me what is real
Not bound by the chains

Chasing every star
Tried to be the hero
Earned every scar

And you wired my heart with that same disease
I too always carry everybody's dreams

But my therapist says I should let it go cuz'

I can't be everything to everyone
But I just wanna matter to someone

I try to break the curse
To live a life that's mine
Still hear your voice in my head
Each time I cross the line

I'll never forget your name
Or all the weight you bore
But I've learned to give less
So I can love a little more

I've been holding the weight of a thousand dreams
But all my friends keep saying that I should let it go

Cuz'

I say the cruelest things
That I don't dare repeat
To anyone but me
Yeah they haunt me in my sleep

Been learning how to stop
That voice that always shouts
To speak to me like I do to others
And give myself the love I hand out

I've been holding my breath for too many dreams
And my heart says to let it all go

And my therapist agrees

I can't be everything to everyone
But I just wanna matter to someone

Oh I can't be everything to everyone
But I just wanna matter to someone

Can I at least be something to someone?
