

Chicago Cubs

Arguably the most popular baseball team in the entire U.S.A.

The 2016 Chicago Cubs finally saved the day.

Waiting more than 100 years since their last World Series crown,

The Cubbies proved they were the best baseball team around.

People love Wrigley field whether the Cubs win or lose,

The ivy-covered outfield, rooftop views, or whatever seat they choose.

Singing "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," with the voice of Harry Caray,

Or snagging homerun balls on Waveland Avenue, which can get quite scary.

Breaking "The Billy Goat Curse," placed way back in 1945,

The Cubs winning the World Series was such a wonderful surprise.

After many great regular seasons, something always stopped them in the fall.

But now, no more curses, no more Steve Bartman, the Cubs finally won it all.

So, is it enough for Cub fans to wait one hundred years more?

Or will another curse be placed to settle the score.

Whatever the case, fans will stay loyal and drink another beer,

'Cause what the heck, it's Chicago, "there's always next year."
