

Friendless

Loneliness, weakness, friendless, weight of despair,

The feeling that no one on earth really cares.

Without someone to turn to when you have basic needs,

This is the time you've lost all hope, yes indeed.

You try to handle everything all by yourself,

But nothing satisfies you, not even wealth.

Without a friend, who can share your greatest joy?

Without a friend, who will caution when you annoy?

Lacking a friend is like driving a car without a steering wheel,

Or going to a hospital and finding no one to try to heal.

No one to shed a tear or share a laugh,

No one to give you a pat on the back.

If you see someone friendless don't let it continue,

Share a part of yourself from deep down within you.

Back up what you say, with all that you do,

Being a friend may give you one too.
