

I Feel You

Being there for someone who needs encouragement and a friend,
Means sticking by them to the very end.
It's just not enough to say it will be okay,
You need to be with them every single day.

For when you say, "I feel you," it means you hurt too,
And you'll keep on hurting as long as they need you to.
Mourning with those who mourn is a lesson from Christ,
And sometimes comes at a really high price.

But we're also to smile when others rejoice,
Which can be an even more difficult choice.
When a friend wins something you thought you'd win,
It tears you up very deep from within.

Saying "I feel you," works in both good times and bad.
Laughing when they laugh and crying when they're sad.
But if you can do it while truly feeling all their emotion,
You'll experience a closeness, stronger than any magic potion.