

Inspirational Showers

Occasionally your brain will draw a blank,
And nothing seems to come through.
To remove those cobwebs and receive inspiration,
A shower is what you should do.

Whether it's the white noise of the faucet,
Or the splash on your worried face,
Thoughts are quickly rekindled,
From what was previously a blank space.

Maybe the United Nations should have them,
Installed for each delegate.
Or the Supreme Court keep one handy,
For matters that are delicate.

Whatever the miracle of inspiration,
That showers may bring,
We could solve hunger and World Peace,
If we had enough of these things.
