

Politics

What's the longest 4-letter word spoken today?

It's "POLITICS," what more can I say?

Discussing politics makes blood-pressure rise.

Since most political stances are based on lies.

Whether you are on the "Left" or on the "Right,"

There is always someone on Facebook that's ready to fight.

It tears friends apart and rips communities asunder,

While those in the middle, shake their heads in wonder.

"Alliances" are broken faster than contestants on "Survivor,"

And people change "lanes" faster than a drunken driver.

Saying one thing today, and denying it the next,

Is so easily done with a quick, dishonest text.

Right or wrong, good or evil, are no longer absolutes,

Things get so unsettled we need to call out the national troops.

Equality, justice, and even our own health become "pawns,"

Come on people! Can't we all just get along?!?
