

Star Wars

“A long time ago, in a galaxy far, far, away...”

Star Wars was launched in 1977, during the month of May.
Some say it was just a movie, others would strongly disagree,
At least for a moment we're asked, “what is your destiny?”

Even if you weren't born in 1977, this movie impacted all our lives,
As generations have seen this world spring to life right before their very eyes.

The stories are not so different, it's still the fight of evil vs good,
And yet the twists and mysteries are often misunderstood.

This movie has birthed 8 more in similar fashion,
Each one producing a stir in varying degrees of passion.

Every time good is about to crumble,
“The Force” steps in and the evil Empire tumbles.

Those of us who've seen the episodes of the Star Wars saga,
Have our own favorite, just like the outfits of Lady Gaga.
So, agree or disagree, which one you think is the best,
Unless it's Episode V, then somehow you missed the rest.

Star Wars even has its very own holiday, it's true,
The 4th of May is revered, so, “May the 4th be with you!”