

The Cave

The cave is an interesting place,
Whose entrance and exit takes up the same space.
If it had another way out it would be just a tunnel,
Even if that other way out dumped you straight into a jungle.

Caves are rarely empty despite their lack of light,
Often filled with creepy, crawly things, that usually cause a fright.

Residents of caves don't mean to be so scary,
But in the dark each step you take, makes you quite wary.

When walls start moving and floors start to scramble,
Your next step could be your last, so you're taking a big gamble.

Caves have bats and Batman which are fine if left alone,
But when one gets stuck in your hair, you'll be cryin' and runnin' home!

So, leave the cave for true spelunkers, unless you're filled with bravery,
Since the rest of us are pantywaists and can't handle any cavery!
